

From Red Square to Fed Square . . .

The Russians are coming. The troupe from the Red Army Choir and Dance Ensemble gathered near Federation Square yesterday to promote its coming 10-week Australia-wide tour as part of its 60th anniversary Victory Day world tour.

The group has spent the past 12 months developing a new show that involves dancing, singing and comedy.

The show is being promoted as encompassing everything from modern ballet to Russian folk, combined with the versatility of their music (Australian pop to Russian classics).

The group will perform in Melbourne in Hamer Hall on November 15.
