

TVMoviesMusicBooksStyleFamilyMovie GuideTV RecapsStageFall TV 2013Cast Reunions

-12% CHOEURS DE L'ARMÉE RUSSE	Choeurs de l'Armée Russe 29 € Voix	CHOEURS DE L'EX-ARMÉE SOVIÉTIQUE	Les choeurs de l'ex armée so... 30 € Voix	-21% LES CHOEURS DE L'EX-ARMÉE SOVIÉTIQUE
--	--	---	---	--

PopWatch

These Russian policemen recorded the year's most 'Get Lucky' cover -- VIDEO

By Hillary Busis on Nov 8, 2013 at 10:57AM @hillibusterr

TweettumblrComments 1

Why are these uniformed Russian cops singing a heavily accented, stage-fog-obscured, dorkily funky cover of Daft Punk and Pharrell Williams's "Get Lucky"? Unless you can read Cyrillic script, you'll have to be content with this Google Translated explanation: "Go to our office got the video for Get lucky, that ensemble MIA, probably preparing for the Kremlin concert on November 10." Well, there you go!

If this was only a rehearsal, just imagine how glorious this performance will be by Nov. 10. Yo Russia: For the sake of humanity, you have to put the final version on YouTube. It may be the only way to prevent a second Cold War.

GET EW ON YOUR TABLET: Subscribe today and get instant access!