

➤ MUSIC ➤ Watch the Russian Police Choir Sing "Get Lucky" at the Sochi Winter Olympics

Watch the Russian Police Choir Sing "Get Lucky" at the Sochi Winter Olympics

BY SOWMYA KRISHNAMURTHY | FEB 7, 2014 | 4:35 PM | PERMALINK

g+ 1 Like 104 Tweet 8

"Get Lucky" might seem like a karaoke-ready song but not everyone is meant to sing it. The Russian police choir (Yes. That's really a thing) celebrated the 2014 Sochi Winter Olympics with its rendition of Daft Punk and Pharrell's hit "Get Lucky." For some reason the armed men decided that the Grammy-winning track about getting lucky was appropriate for the opening ceremony of the Winter games in Sochi.

As imagined, they lack the style and coordination of Daft Punk or Pharrell. Don't quit your day job, guys.