

Russian Police Choir Sings "Get Lucky" Before Sochi Opening Ceremony

The Russian police choir, which has become rather famous for its wonderful covers of popular pop songs, made an appearance before the Olympic opening ceremony in Sochi today. It was delightful.

The boys did a spirited rendition of "Get Lucky" by Daft Punk, and they were really into it! Well, this guy on the left here was maybe not so into it:

RELATED

Watch the Russian Police Choir Cover Daft Punk's "Get Lucky"

The Russian Police Choir, officially known as the Russian Ministry of Internal Affairs Choir, recorded a video performance of Daft Punk's... Read...

