

Russian police's version of 'Get Lucky' goes viral

By Greg Schimmel February 8, 2014 E-mail the writer

In the middle of Friday's Opening Ceremonies, which included a stunning tribute to Russian history, members of the Russian Ministry of Internal Affairs choir tried to create their own lasting moment.

The group of police officers performed a rollicking cover of the Grammy-winning song "Get Lucky" by Daft Punk, and the result was an endearing, albeit absurd rendition that has gone viral today in the U.S.

Do yourself a favor and watch. Then check out another cover a similar group has done.

