

Watch the Russian Police Choir Perform Daft Punk's "Get Lucky" on "Today"

Al Roker is particularly enjoying himself

By Evan Minsker and Carrie Battan on February 10, 2014 at 10:42 a.m.

 Tweet 78  Like 1.2k  +1

Reprising their performance from the Opening Ceremony for the Sochi Olympics, the Russian Police Choir appeared on NBC's "Today" this morning. Yes, they did Daft Punk's "Get Lucky" once again, and yes, they were just as vivacious and bemused as they were during the Opening Ceremony.

Watch the performance, preceded by Matt Lauer and Meredith Vieira's brief interview with the the Russian Police Choir's General Viktor Eliseev, over on NBC's Olympics site. Bonus: Al Roker, joined by Olympians Sage Kotsenburg and Jamie Anderson, was extremely enthusiastic about the performance.

Watch the choir perform "Get Lucky" a few months ago:

